Parashat Ha'azinu / Shabbat Shuvah

8 Tishrei, 5787 / September 19, 2026

Triennial Cycle Year I: Deuteronomy 32:1-52

Humash Etz Hayyim, page 1185; Haftarah: Hosea 14:2-10; Joel 2:15-27, page 1234

We follow the custom of adding the verses from Joel to the central text from Hosea. This, explains Rabbi Isaac Klein, is based on the idea that the Haftarah should relate to the Torah reading. In Ha'azinu, we read, "Let my discourse come down as the rain," which connects to the passage in Joel: "He makes the rain fall."

1. (32:1-3) Invitation to heaven and earth to pay attention as the poet declares God's qualities.
2. (4-18) History of God's relations with Israel.
3. (19-42) God's decisions: to punish Israel, but also to limit Israel's punishment and punish the enemy.
4. (43) Coda: Celebration of God's deliverance of Israel.
5. (44-47) The song is read to the people and they are warned to take it to heart.
6. (48-52) Moses is told to ascend Mt. Nevo, from which he will view the land of Canaan and die.

Announcing Sulam for Emerging Leaders

Would you like to help guide Congregation Beth David in the next phase of our journey? Please consider joining Sulam for Emerging Leaders, a leadership development program with a distinctly Jewish outlook. Through seven two-hour sessions, you will build relationships with your peers, gain empowerment to effect change, reflect on leadership through Jewish values, and practice leadership skills. Sulam for Emerging Leaders engages with people in Congregation Beth David who are in their first term serving on the Board of Directors or who have not previously served. The program will begin after the High Holy Days this fall, meeting about once a month. The exact schedule will be worked out with the participants before the first session. Please contact Jerry Bloom (jeremyblm@yahoo.com) if you are interested and save a place on your calendar for Sulam for Emerging Leaders. Help build the future of Congregation Beth David.
